First Paying Customer Unloads Cargo at Port of Cates Landing

The Port of Cates Landing, constructed by Aquarius Marine, LLC, a subsidiary of C.J. Mahan Construction Company, LLC, loaded its first barge Tuesday morning when a semi-truck load of steel sheet piling arrived from Texas. It was the first paying customer using the port facility and is the first of seven the port is expecting. The shipment officially declares the port open for business.

The delivery was made even more unique as the company that shipped the steel was the same company that built the port. The steel was shipped out of Midlothian, Texas and is bound for Paducah, Kentucky. The steel will be used by Aquarius Marine, LLC. to construct a cell to support a new tower crane at the Paducah Riverport, on the Ohio River.
